BONNETS.

Of all the charms dear woman wears,
Of all her many traps and snares,
For real effect there's naught compares
With a truly pretty bonnet;
For when or wherever you chance to meet
One that is perfectly modest and neat,
You may depend 'tis a proof complete
That the head has more in than on it.

No matter whether she's pretty or not,
How much or how little money she's got,
Whether she live in mansion or cot,
'Tis a fact, depend upon it;
The woman to make a man happy thro' life,
To make a model mother and wife,
Is one who, scorning this milliner strife,
Wears a plain and tasteful bonnet.

Now a bonnet of genuine beauty and grace,
Worn on the head in its proper place,
Shadowing faintly the wearer's face,
"Is a thing for a song or a sonnet."
But one of these gay and gaudy things,
Made up of rainbows and butterfly wings,
Is dreadful, depend upon it.

A vulgar mass of "fuss and feather,"
A little of everything thrown together,
As if by a touch of windy weather,
A wretched conglomeration—
A sort of cup to catch the hair,
Leaving the head to "go it bare."
A striking example of "Nothing to Wear."
Is this bonnet abomination.

It makes a woman look brazen and bold,
Assists her in catching nothing but cold,
Is bad on the young, absurd on the old,
And deforms what it ought to deck;
For look at her face, no bonnet is there,
See at the side it hangs by a hair;
View it behind, and you're ready to swear
That the creature has broken her neck.

No matter where you may chance to be,
No matter how many women you see,
A promiscuous crowd or a certain she,
You may fully depend upon it
That a gem of the very rarest kind,
A thing most difficult to find,
A pet for which we long have pined,
Is a perfect "love of a bonnet."

The Yankee Fox Skin.

'Mornin' Squire,' said a down-caster, giving a nod and a wink to Lyman & Towle, as those gentlemen stood in their store one morning, 'up and dressed' for business.

'How are you, sir?' said the merchant.

'Pooty well, considering the state of things in general. I say, yeou sell skins here, don't yeou?'

'We do, occasionally, was the response.

'Wal, so I calculated; but fox skins tew, I reckon?'

'Sometimes. Why, have you got some for sale?'

'Some. Yes, I guess I have one; it's some tew, I tell yeou."

'Let's look at it,' said one of the merchants.

The owner of the skin tugged at the capacious pocket of his old yellow overcoat for a few minutes, and out came a pretty good-sized bang-up of a venerable reynard.

'There it is—a perfect bewty is it too. Ain't it?'

'Seen finer ones,' said Towle.

'Praps you have, and praps yeou haint; but I dew think it's a rale bewty, slick and shiny as a bran new hat.'

'When did you get this skin?' said the merchant.

'When did I get it?' Why, when I killed the darned critter, of course.'

'Yes, we know, but was it in the fall or summer, or when?'

'O! yes; well I reckon 'twarnt far from the Fourth of July, any way, for I'd just cleaned up my old shootin' piece for parade on the glorious anniversory, and along comes the old critter, and I just gave him a rip in the gizzard that settled his hash mighty sudden, I tell yeou.'

'Fox skins,' said the merchant, 'are not very good when taken in hot weather; the fur and skin is very thin, and not fit for much in summer.'

'Wal, neow, I reckon since I come to think it over, 'twarnt hot weather when I shot the critter; no, I'll be darned if it was; made a thunderin' mistake 'bout that, for 'twas nigh on to Christmas—was, by golly, for I and Seth Perkins wor goin to a frolic. I remember it like a book, cold as sixty, snowin' awful—was by ginger.'

'Well,' says the merchant, 'was the fox very fat?'

'F-a-t! O, Molly warn't it fat! Never did see such a fat fellow in all my born days. Why, yeou, the fat came clean through the fellow's hide, run down his legs, till the very airth was greasy where the darned varmint crawled along. Did, by Peurkins.'

'Too fat, then we guess, to be good,' said Towle. 'Fat skins, sir, are not so good as those taken from an animal not more than ordinary fat.'

'Well, guess it warn't so darned fat neither, come to think about it, 'twas another one our Siah shot last fall; this warn't so darned fat, not overly fat—fact, I guess it was rayther lean, kind o' lean, tre-menjous lean; old varmint was about to die of starvation: never did see such a darned eternal, starved, lean, lank, famished critter on the airth before!'

'Very poor, eh?' says Lyman.

'Very poor? I guess it was; so mighty poor that the old critter's bones stuck clean eought, almost through his skin; hadn't killed it just when I did, 'twould have died afore it got ten rods further along. Fact, by golly.'

'Ah! well, said the merchant, we see that skin is poor; the fur is thin and loose, and would not suit us.'

'Wunt suit yeou? Now, look ahere yeou,' says the Yankee, folding up his versatile skin, 'I don't kind o' like such dealin' as that, no heow, and I'll be darned to darnation, ef yeou ketch me tradin' for skins with yeou agin there ain't no lumber in the State of Maine.'

And the holder of the skin vamosed.

"I Have Not Begun to Fight Yet."

The above language of the gallant and brave Paul Jones, when the British commander asked if he had struck his flag and surrendered, are memorable words. Altho' his deck was slippery and streaming with the blood of his gallant crew, his ship was on fire, his guns were nearly every one dismounted, his colors shot away, and his vessel gradually sinking, Paul Jones with an immortal heroism, continued to fight. "Do you surrender?" shouted the English captain, desiring to prevent further bloodshed, and seeing the colors of the Bon Homme Richard gone, supposed the American hero wished to surrender. His answer was, "I have not begun to fight yet!" The scene is thus described:—There was a lull in the conflict for an instant, and the boldest held his breath as Paul Jones, covered with blood and black with powder stains, jumped on a broken gun carriage, waving his sword, exclaimed in the never-to-be-forgotten words, "I have not begun to fight yet!" And the result was the battle changed, and in a few minutes the British ship struck her colors, and surrendered, and Paul Jones, leaping from the British vessel a conquerer and a hero. What an admirable watchword for the battle of life, does the above stirring incident give to every man. Reverse may overwhelm for a time, despair may ask hope to strike her flag, but planting the foot more firmly, bending the back more readily to the burdens imposed, straining the muscles to the utmost tension, and bracing the drooping heart, let him who is driven to the wall, exclaim, "I have not begun to fight yet." They are words of energy, hope and action. They deserve, they will command success. In the darkest hour let them ring out and forget the past, the years wasted and gone by, and give them as an inaugural address of a new era. When the misfortunes of life gather too closely around, let the battle cry go forth from the thickest of the conflict, "I have not begun to fight," and you will find your foes flee before the new strength imparted, and yielding the vantage as you press forward in the battle strife.

DUMFOUNDING A DANDY.—On board a western steamer, a live Yankee and a dandy sat directly opposite each other at the table. After the captain had said grace, the dandy threw himself back on his dignity, and called out in a pompous tone for the waiter.

'You, waitah! bwing me the supportah of a young female hen, a fresh egg, and sahrub the bottom of my plate with a specimen of fruit vulgarly called an onion, which will give my dinnah a delicious flavah.'

'Yeau all-fired, dod-blasted, dod-rabbited, pesky-lookin little trained black nigger! fotch me a peck of corn, and a bundle of fodder, and rub me down with a brick-bat while I feed.'

Men ceased to think of masticating, while an uproarious yell fairly shook the cabin, during which the dandy was seen streaking out the door with a finger in each ear.

A QUICK QUARTER.—A boy worked hard all day for a quarter: he bought apples and took them to town and sold them in Federal street for a dollar. With the dollar he bought a sheep. The sheep brought him a lamb, and her fleece brought another dollar. With a dollar he bought another sheep. The next spring he had two sheep, two lambs, and a yearling sheep. The fleeces he sold for three dollars, and bought three more sheep. He worked, where he found opportunity, for hay, corn and oats, and pasturing for sheep. He took the choicest care of them and soon had a flock. Their wool enabled him to buy a pasture for them, and by the time he was twenty-one, he had a fair start in life, and all from the quarter earned in one day.

Love, Flirtation, Jealousy and Suicide.

A young man named Albert G. Eldrigde, a resident of Toledo, committed suicide by jumping overboard from the screw steamer Northen Light, on her last trip down. The circumstances of the case are peculiar, and show to what an extent the feelings may be wrought upon by that all powerful sentiment love. Mr. Eldridge was in company with a pleasure party who had made the tour of Lake Superior. Among these was a young lady from Cleveland, named Miss H——, daughter of a heavy forwarding merchant in that city. To this young lady, who was everything attractive and interesting, the unfortunate young man was devotedly attached. How long the attachment had existed, or to what extent it was reciprocated, we are not able to say but his attentions were very assiduous during the early portion of the trip. He lived in the pure light of an undivided love, and was most happy in being near its object—at least so his undisguised and open actions indicated. All went on happily until the return of the boat, when she received as a passenger, a young man, who became acquainted with Miss H—— and hence forth devoted himself to her. She seems to have entered into the flirtation with a keen zest; so keen, in fact, that her lover was driven into a most unmistakable fit of the blues. He spent his time in walking the upper deck with his hands in his pockets, sitting with his feet hanging over the side, and leaning over the stern, gazing into the dark troubled waters, that rivalled the commotion which that worst of all disappointments—a love derided—had stirred up in his own bosom. At Mackinac the party went ashore to inspect the Island, and wanted him to accompany them. He moodily refused, saying that he was not wanted. His conduct attracted the attention of everybody on board which made his poor case worse, for nobody has sympathy with the trouble of a lover, except those who are bound in the same ties. Shortly on entering upon Lake Huron he was accosted by his mistress as he sat by himself on the side of the boat. She placed her hand upon his shoulder and spoke to him in an inquiring tone. He replied that he had no desire to mingle in the diversions of his companions, but would rather die at once. She replied kindly, desiring him not to speak so, and requested him to come into the cabin Instead of complying, he gave her one look, and without a word, plunged overboard. A scream from the lady brought the remainder of the company to her side. He was seen to struggle for a few moments and then to sink never to rise. With the image of his beloved before his eyes he sprang into the cold embrace of death without an instant's thought or preparation.

He was a young man of good standing in Toledo, and has been engaged in business there for some years. The lady is of one of the best families in Cleveland, and the event excited no little feeling. Every effort was made to keep the event still, the officers of the boat reporting that he fell overboard accidentally, but we have the above facts from passengers who came down on the boat, who were cognizant of circumstances from beginning to end.—Detroit Free Press, July 20.

The Cunning Thrush.

There is much more intellect in birds than people suppose. An instance of this occurred the other day at a slate quarry belonging to a friend, from whom we have the narrative. A thrush not aware of the expansive properties of gunpowder, tho't proper to build her nest on a ridge of the quarry, in the very centre of which they were constantly blasting the rock. At first she was much discomposed by the fragments flying in all directions, but still she would not quit her chosen locality.—She observed that a bell rang whenever a train was about to be fired, and that at the notice the workman retired to safe positions. In a few days, when she heard the bell, she quitted her exposed situation and flew down to where the workmen sheltered themselves, dropping close to their feet. There she would remain until the explosion had taken place, and then return to her nest. The workmen observed this and narrated it to their employers, and it was also told to visitors, who naturally expressed a wish to witness so curious a specimen of intellect, but as the rock could not always be blasted when visitors came, the bell was rung instead, and for a few days answered the same purpose. The thrush flew down close to where they stood, but she perceived the change, and it interfered in the process of incubation; the consequence was, that afterwards when the bell was rung she would peep over the ledge to ascertain if the workmen did retreat, and if they did not, she would remain where she was.—London Literary Journal.

☞ 'What do you drive such a pitiful looking carcass as that for? Why don't you put a heavy coat of flesh on him?'

'A heavy coat of flesh! By the power the poor crater can hardly carry what little there is on him.'

Written for the "Altoona Tribune."

Reminiscences of College Life.

CHAPTER V.

Days of recreation, upon which we did not study, were always hailed with pleasure. In the Spring and Summer the different classes would frequently receive permission to be absent from the building for the space of a day and as a matter of course also absent from recitation. The members of the class thus befriended would often take up their line of march to some sequestered spot in a distant or neighboring wood.

Sometimes they would get up a sort of pic-nic minus ladies, and after pataking of pies and cakes, their patriotism would begin to bubble up, and speeches, toasts and responses would consume the remainder of the day. In the evening they would return, refreshed perhaps in mind but almost tired out in body.

Our class once had a 'jubilee,' as we called it, and the woods were made to echo with the voice of eloquence and queer sayings. After we had assembled in a delightful place shaded by tall oaks and beneath the branches of which gushed a spring of clear water, we partook of our provisions which were spread out upon the green sward before us, when toasts were proposed by one and agreed to be given and responded to by all of us. Various kinds were given—"good, bad and indifferent"—and were responded to in like manner, each trying to excel the other in eloquence of style and intent upon eliciting the loudest applause. One toast, I remember, ran thus: "The girls we left behind us—The lovely and innocent captors of our hearts; their kisses sweeten our lives, their embraces herfumix us; may they, on our return, receive us with outstretched arms and almost smother us with kisses." That was a toast and it had to be responded to, and they vociferously yelled for me. I arose, not knowing how to commence or what to say, until after a little reflection I began; and warming up with the subject as I proceeded, I gave vent to such streams of fustian eloquence that astonished me; blowing away, I soared aloft upon the 'wings of thought,' when, wishing to stop, I came down kerchug! When taking my seat beside an old stump, (I was compelled to stop for want of more to say,) I was almost stunned by the deafening shouts that rent the air, the cause of which I did not know, unless it was the fact of my harangue being filled with nothing but pointless illusions, butchered metaphors and horrible encomiums pronounced upon the female form divine.

After we were regaled by some more fanciful speeches, we started for College, feeling not a little like orators.

Some time after the foregoing occurrence, one of the higher classes got permission to take a stroll into the country (for their health, of course,) on a certain Tuesday, and we, feeling our importance, thought that the like permission would be granted us on the following Thursday. So we drew up a petition, signed by every member of the class, twenty in number, soliciting Thursday as a day for recreation. However, the Faculty concluded not to comply with our request at that time—we concluded that we ought and of right should be treated not less indulgently than the class preceding us. We had to recite three times on Thursday—at eight, eleven and four—and we therefore considered it a 'hard day;' hence our desire to avoid it. Eighteen of our number roomed in the building, the remaining two in town. Two members of the class on Thursday morning made it their business to visit the rooms of their classmates to see how many were in favor of absenting themselves from recitation that day, assigning as a reason for their meditated absence indisposition. They found that all of their number who roomed in College were indisposed to recite that day. The hour of eight came. Two of our classmates (those who roomed in town,) were the only members of our class who made their appearance in the recitation room. After they had gone through with the formula of reciting, the Professor went down to the Doctor's room and told him that the —— class was broken up, that only two had been there, and that he heard the class had a meeting and had resolved not to recite, but to resist the authority of the Faculty. Upon this startling announcement, the Doctor's rage knew no bounds. He rushed from his study, and went directly to the room of the person he supposed as the ringleador in the 'resistance.' He asked him if he intended to go to recitation at eleven o'clock. The student told him that he thought he would'nt go that day. 'What is your excuse?' inquired the Doctor. 'I will give my excuse to the Professor to whom I recite,' replied the student; 'and if the excuse be not satisfactory to him he can mark it so in my character bill.' 'You are expelled from the institution!' shouted the Doctor. He then went to other rooms and did the same, after which he came to mine. 'Mr. ——, are you going to recitation at eleven o'clock?' he asked. 'No sir,' said I, and I was about to tell him my reason, but he hurried out at the door, saying something about being expelled, and left me standing in mute astonishment. Eleven o'clock came, and only four were at recitation—the two who roomed in town, and (mark it!) the two who visited our rooms that morning advising us all to stay away! That evening the Faculty met to act upon our case. The next morning, which was Friday, the Doctor said that 'the —— class should remain in the Chapel after prayers.' We did so. When all the others had left and our class alone remained, the Doctor looked over the group of sixteen students and beheld Peter Baird, who, the day previous, was sick a-bed, sitting with us to hear his doom. The Doctor told him that he was not included among those who resisted authority, that sickness was his excuse for absence at recitation. Peter rose to his feet and respectfully said: "I see no hostile intentions on the part of these my classmates—each one has acted for himself, irrespective of the other; the class is about to be expelled because each member chose to stay away from recitation, and for which absence no doubt each one can and will give a sufficient excuse to the proper person if permitted to go to recitation this morning; I therefore think that they have done nothing to merit expulsion.' 'Well, then,' said the Doctor, 'you are included.' He then said that he was about to read the action that the Faculty had taken; but before he did so he prefaced it with some of his own remarks. He said we were a set of hot-headed fellows who thought we could injure the institution; 'but,' said he, 'the institution will stand long after your ashes are scattered to the winds and the confidence which I have heretofore reposed in you has taken its flight.' He then commenced to read the action of the Faculty. It was to the effect that all those who were absent at recitation on Thursday at eleven o'clock were expelled, and the Doctor added that we should 'pack up our effects and leave forthwith.' I went to my room, packed up my 'effects,' and went to the country to visit some friends. It was ten o'clock on Friday night when I returned, and I then heard that the Faculty had met that evening again and re-instated nearly all whom they had expelled in the morning, in consequence of a misunderstanding on the part of the Faculty. They had previously been under the impression that our class had called a meeting and resolved to do as we did, which private meeting, as well as all others, was strictly forbidden by the rules of College; and upon that impression we as a class had been expelled!

No meeting was held—no resolve was made. The sentence of expulsion was annulled—we were students again!

☞ A good joke, says the Syracuse Standard, is related of Miss C., a laughter-loving, good-natured lass, who was spending an afternoon with a neighbor, and during supper, the conversation turned on hens, eggs, &c., during which Miss C. observed, 'that their hens did not lay scarcely any eggs, and she could not give any reason for it.' 'Why,' observed Mr. P., 'my hens lay very well; I go out among them almost every day, and get eggs.'—'My gracious!' was the instant rejoinder, 'I wish you would come over to our house and run with our hens a spell, I'm sure father would pay you well for your trouble.' She'll do.

The Greatest Achievement of the Age.

On Thursday last, quite an excitement was created in this place, by the receipt of the following dispatch from the chief director of the fleet engaged in laying the Atlantic Cable, addressed to the President, at Bedford:—

NEW YORK, August 5, 1858.

TO PRESIDENT BUCHANAN, Bedford Springs.

On Saturday, July 17th, the Telegraph fleet sailed from Queenstown, and met in mid ocean on the 28th. The cable was spliced at 1 o'clock P. M. on Thursday, the 29th, and the vessels then separated, the Agamemnon and Valorous bound for Valencia, Ireland, and the Niagara and Gorgon for Trinity Bay, where the latter arrived yesterday and this morning the end of the Cable will be landed. It is 1608 nautical miles or 1950 statute miles from the telegraph house at the head of Valencia Harbor and telegraph house at Bull's Arm, Trinity Bay, and for more than two thirds of the distance the water is over two miles in depth.

The Cable has been paid from the Agamemnon at the same speed as from the Niagara.—The electrical signals are sent and received through the whole Cable perfect. The machinery for paying out the Cable worked most satisfactorily, and it was not stopped for a single moment. Capt. Hudson, of the Niagara, Messrs. Everett and Woodhouse, the engineers, electricians and officers of the ship, and in fact every man on board the telegraph fleet exerted himself to the utmost to make the expedition successful and by the blessing of Divine Providence succeeded.

After the end of the Cable has been landed and connected with the land line and the Niagara has discharged some of the cargo belonging to the fleet, she will go to St. John's for coals and then proceed at once to New York.

CYRUS W. FIELD.

At first the report was not credited, and we confess that it required more than the mere announcement that such a dispatch had been received, to convince us of its truth, but the receipt of the above dispatch, furnished us by one of the P. R. R. dispatchers at the office in this place, dispelled all doubts. The failure to accomplish this great undertaking last fall, and the reported failures but a few days previous to the receipt of the above dispatch, together with numerous hoaxes that had been played off on telegraph operaters and daily newspapers, naturally caused the public to relinquish all hope of success and receive with incredulity any reports respecting it. But when the report was substantiated by an exhibition of the dispatch with the name of Cyrus W. Field attached, all doubts fled away and gave place to expressions of joy and gladness.

The Pittsburg Dispatch, in noticing the affair, says:—"The cable is laid, and with it are fortunately laid the vaticinations of false Balaams of prophecy, the demonstrations of our Dr. Lardeners of science, and the clamors of the Thersites of the crowd. The stolid theologian of the Ohio Farmer, who predicted failure, now and hereafter, because the Almighty had placed the ocean as an insuperable barrier between two continents, should be donated a button and advised to pocket his thesis. Yet in the thankfulness all must feel that the effort has been crowned with success, we can afford to forgive these croakers, especially as their predictions have proven false."

A telegraph dispatch announces that the recording instruments for the cable are in such a state of forwardness as to insure the early opening of the line for business. Instantly after the transmission of the President's reply to the Queen's message, the two communications will, by consent of the President, and through the co-operation of the managers and employees of the telegraph lines of the country, be made public from New Foundland to Texas, and from Quebec to the boundary of civilization in the Northwest. It will probably take place during the present week. Notice will be given in advance of the day when the first message will be transmitted through the cable.

It is proposed that some early day be set apart by England, Canada and America, as a national jubilee for the successful laying of the Atlantic Cable.

☞ We are pleased to notice that our friend, Col. J. J. Patterson, of Juniata county, is recommended as a candidate for Assembly in the Snyder, Union and Juniata district. We hope he may be successful in securing the nomination, as he would evidently be elected. He would make a good representative, is a clever fellow, and would undoubtedly obtain the robriquet of the "Handsome Member."

Tariff Meeting at Tyrone.

A meeting of the friends of a Protective Tariff, was held at Tyrone, on Saturday afternoon last, and addressed by S. S. Blair, Esq., and Hon. Samuel Calvin, of Hollidaysburg.

We have ever been the friends of a Protective Tariff, and therefore delight to witness a disposition to revive this question in the coming political campaign. It is a question of vital importance to the whole Union, but more particularly to Pennsylvania, and we believe that those who have so long been blind-folded by party leaders and induced to vote against their own interests, have had the scales removed from their eyes and will rise in their majesty and strike down those who have so long assisted in oppressing them. We believe that the question will not long remain a political one. The injuriousness of a Free Trade Tariff, to the interests of the country, are too plainly seen and felt, as well by the wealthy as the poorer classes, to allow either of them to overlook it, merely for the sake of securing political supremacy.

Resolutions were passed condemning the Free Trade Tariff of 1846, and demanding a restoration of the Tariff of 1842, and asserting that no candidate for Congress would be supported who was not openly and avowedly in favor of a Protective Tariff.

The Elections.

The returns from the Kansas election, up to the present time, show that the Constitution submitted by the late Congress, has been defeated by a very large majority. The confidence reposed in the integrity of the people has not been misplaced. They have spurned the bribe offered by the Administration party.

The Kentucky election, although not an important one, was attended with some excitement. At Louisville and Lexington the Americans carried their ticket throughout. The returns from other portions of the State favor the election of the Democratic State officers.

The Democrats have evidently carried Missouri, owing, it is said, to a division of the opposition. In the St. Louis district the Democratic candidate for Congress is elected—but the Administration dare not count him as a gain, inasmuch as he is a staunch friend and supporter of Stephen A. Douglas.

THAT TARIFF BRIBERY FUND.—John W. Walcott, who was the hero of the tariff corruption committee of the late session, has been sued by the creditors of Lawrence, Stone & Co., for the recovery of the $74,000 which he received from that firm for the purpose of influencing the passage of the tariff of 1857, and which, as is well ascertained, he kept in his pocket, probably by an understanding with Sam. Lawrence, who now shelters himself abroad from a prosecution at home. The trial may elicit some further facts in regard to Lawrence's financiering. The testimony taken by the Committee of the House is now published, with the report, forming a document of 110 pages. There is nothing in the testimony that shows that any member of Congress received any of the Lawrence fund, but it is conclusively proved that Walcott retained the $74,000, with the exception of $4,000 paid to George Ashman.

NEW BANK NOTE REPORTER.—We are in receipt of a new Bank Note Reporter, published in Philadelphia, by Charles G. Imlay, and corrected by Work, McCough & Co. It is gotten up in a very neat style and professes to be a fearless and independent publication. The numerous publications of this kind which have been recently started, should, we think, be able to keep the country free of counterfeit money and our citizens well posted on the money question. Price of this Reporter $2 per annum. Chas. G. Imlay, Box 1160 Philadelphia.

☞ GODEY, for September, is before us, containing a neat frontispiece, entitled the "Bird Trappers," a most beautiful colored fashion-plate, a wood engraving of three boys pitching pennies and one on his way to Sabbath School, entitled "My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not," together with plain and ornamental patterns for the ladies. Godey will always be ahead, let others try as they may. $3 per annum in advance. L. A. Godey, Philadelphia.

☞ Samuel Morgan, under sentence of death at Portsmouth, Ohio, for the brutal murder of his wife, committed suicide on Friday night last, by hanging himself to the bars of his cell. When it was known that the wretch was certainly dead, one of his daughters ventured to reveal what she had never dared speak of before—that she and her two sisters had been repeatedly the unwilling victims of their unnatural parent's lust, and that the infant in her arms was his offspring.

☞ Emerson's Magazine and Putnam's Monthly, for August, has just been received. The cover is embellished with a beautiful and expressive engraving. The contents are of the same high order for which the work has been distinguished, accompanied by a number of appropriate engravings. It is a thoroughly original American publication, and as such deserves success. Price $3 per year and a magnificent $5 engraving gratis. Oakesmith & Co., publishers, New York.

Wisconsin will probably have, under the next apportionment, eight members of Congress.

☞ At Paris, lately, a woman was bitten in the back of the neck by one of those large flies which feed on decayd meat, and died in a few days afterwards, suffering severely, and in spite of the best medical attendance. It is supposed that the fly must have eaten carrion immediately before wounding the woman, and that the virus which it introduced into the wound quickly spread through the system.

☞ We learn that an experiment was made on the Androscoggin Railroad, a short time since, to test the quantity of wood consumed in the movement of trains. Each of three consecutive engines, by accurate measurement, moved an ordinary train, at the usual speed, one hundred and eighteen miles with one cord of wood. The greatest economy of fuel ever before attained, that we have heard of, was one hundred and ten miles to the cord. The ordinary consumption is one cord to from thirty-five to forty miles, and on some roads the average is not thirty miles to the cord.

LYNCH LAW.—Lynching is carried on in Texas by wholesale, and seems to be an established "institution" there. Recently a committee was formed in Goliad county, to relieve it from bandits in a summary manner. The proceedings have been conducted with order, discrimination and efficiency. The county has been made a "Safety Association." Nine citizens, among the most respectable, selected from the different parts to constitute a court, and marshals are appointed for attending judgments and instructions. What they have done may be judged by the following:

Elish Browning, John Wardick, Michael Wardick and J. Goldman have been publicly hanged. Bryant Wardick was shot and killed at the old town in taking him. A Mexican, Andres Olgsin, attempted to flee with Wardick, and was shot, but not killed. At the same time two itinerant Mexicans, of bad notoriety, escaped from the county. A few Americans, known criminals, have likewise escaped.

Last fall a preacher named Jo. Donegan received five hundred lashes from a leather strap, administered in the presence of a large audience of the citizens of Ellis county, Texas, from the hands of a big negro. He was whipped because the citizens of Ellis believed him guilty of arson, burglary, horse-stealing and tampering with negroes. He was also banished from the county. On the 16th of June last, however, it was understood that Donegan was back in the county; that he was coming to Waxabachie, and intended to bring friends with him to defend himself against all opposition. In confirmation of the report, too, one of Donegan's friends, named J. W. Busby, and Donegan's brother, suddenly appeared, well armed, and saying that Donegan should come back next day, at all hazards.

The citizens of Waxabachie, upon this, became highly excited. Consequently, as soon as the sun arose, men, armed and mounted, were seen riding in small squads out of town, and this continued until nearly eight o'clock. All went in the direction of the Donegan and Busby neighborhood. It was estimated that nearly one hundred persons, thus armed and equipped, left town that morning. They had gone in pursuit of and killed both Busby and John Donegan, Busby was shot in the hand, arms, breast, and side, and had more than a dozen mortal wounds. Donegan was also riddled with rifle balls.

☞ The Pittsburg Dispatch contains the following in relation to the Western Division of the Penn'a Canal:—

The Western Division of the Pennsylvania Canal is undergoing extensive repairs. Between this city and Tarentum, some ten new bridges have been built in lieu of the former dilapidated old structures, and various other improvements are taking place. The same repairs are said to be making throughout the entire division, and the value of the canal to those living along the line of the improvement will be materially enhanced. The entire division has latterly fallen into partial disuse, and consequently has been too much neglected. The farmers, however, are waking up to the necessity of keeping the canal in working order, and a meeting of those interested will be held in Freeport, about the latter part of this month, to make arrangements for securing this object. It is probable that an arrangement will be made to lease the division.

SUICIDE.—George De Dier, of West Brandywine township, Chester county, put an end to his life on Friday night week, by shooting himself. He got up after the family had retired to bed, and taking a loaded gun, went into a shop adjoining, and shot himself. He placed the muzzle of the gun against his left side, opposite his heart, and probably rested the gun on the floor, and with a stick he forced the trigger. The load entered his side, penetrated his heart, and came out at the opposite shoulder. The report alarmed his family, which consisted of a wife and three children. The gun was loaded with shot. It was about two o'clock in the morning that the deed was done.

FAT PORK AS HUMAN FOOD.—"A fat hog is the very quintescence of scrofula and carbonic acid gas, and he who eats it must not expect thereby to build up a sound physical organism. While it contributes heat, not the twentieth part of it is nitrogen, the base of muscle." The Scientific American cordially endorses the above sentiments as being sound practical truth, and says—"Fat pork was never designed for human food. It is material for breath and nothing more. See Liebig and other organic chemists and physiologists. It makes no red meat or muscle. The prize fighter is not allowed to eat it. All that is not consumed by the lungs, remains to clog the body with fat."

ODDFELLOWSHIP.—We learn from the Grand Secretary's printed report that there are 44,119 members of the order in this State, belonging to 603 lodges. There were relieved during the past year 5,654 brothers and 652 widowed families. The number of brothers buried amounted to 375. Total amount paid for relief, $113,091 75. The largest amount expended for relief by any single Lodge was $2,942, by Kensington Lodge, No. 11. Guttenberg Lodge, No. 106, reports 448 members, being the highest number. Lancaster Lodge, No. 61, has a membership of 327, being the largest outside of Philadelphia.

TAKING AN EARLY START.—Two business messages from New York merchants, were sent over the land telegraph on Thursday, en route for London, one of fifty-seven words, costing fifty-seven dollars, and the other of twenty-seven words, costing twenty-seven dollars. This is making an early use of the facilities for dispatching business. But as the submarine telegraph may not, as is announced, be in working trim for weeks, the chance is, that the dispatch will not be much in advance of the mails. It is the early bird, however, that catches the worm!

☞ From the annual abstract of returns of the militia of the United States for 1857, transmitted to Congress in accordance with the act of 1903, by the Secretary of War, we learn that the grand aggregate in all the States, Territories, and the District of Columbia, is 2,755,726. Of this number, about 2,700,000 are infantry, 20,000 cavalry, 12,000 artillery, and 34,000 riflemen. The total returned for Kentucky, is 88,588, of which number about 86,000 are infantry, 000 cavalry, 1,000 artillery, and 700 riflemen.

FROM UTAH.—The latest news, by mail, from Utah, is the 10th of July. The advices are very unpropitious. There is but little prospect of a long continuance. Gov. Cumming is the only one of the prominent Gentiles who is treated with civility. The Mormons were returning en masse to Salt Lake City. There was an evident intention to make every possible effort, for securing admission as a State.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR!
PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD,
COMPOUNDED ENTIRELY FROM GUMS,

is one of the best Purgative and Liver Medicines ever before the public, that acts as a Cathartic, emetic, sudorific and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it, and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The LIVER is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, and the bowels are at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one organ—the LIVER—having ceased to do its duty. For the diseases of that organ, one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with LIVER COMPLAINT, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, PURIFYING THE BLOOD, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

BILIOUS ATTACKS are curED, AND, WHAT IS BETTER, PREVENTED, by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

PROF. O. J. WOOD—Dear Sir: Some time last summer we were induced to use some of your Hair Restorative, and its effects were so wonderful, we feel it our duty to you and the afflicted, to report it.

Our little son's head for some time had been perfectly covered with sores, and some called it, scald head. The hair almost entirely came off in consequence. When a friend, seeings his sufferings, advised us to use your Restorative, we did so with little hope of success, but, to our surprise, and that of all our friends, a very few applications removed the disease entirely, and a new and luxuriant crop of hair soon started out; and we can now say that our boy has a healthy scalp, and as luxuriant a crop of hair as any other child. We can therefore, and do hereby recommend your Restorative, as a perfect remedy for all diseases of the scalp and hair. We are, yours respectfully,

PRESENTATION.—On Thursday last, 5th inst., we attended, by invitation, a meeting of the Employees connected with the maintenance of way department of the Penn's Railroad, on the division between Hollidaysburg and Huntingdon, held at the National Hotel, in Tyrone, for the purpose of presenting a gold watch, chain and seal to JONATHAN RHULE, Esq., Supervisor of that division, as a token of their respect and esteem.

The meeting was organized by appointing Capt. James Bell President, and E. B. McCrum, Secretary.

The President stated the object of the meeting, after which GEO. B. CRAMER, Esq., presented the watch with the following

ADDRESS.

MR. RHULE—Allow me, on behalf and in the name of the employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad, on the Division under your charge, to present to you the watch and chain which I hold in my hand, as a token of their respect and affection for you. It is extremely gratifying to me, I assure you, to be the means of conveying this gift to you, because I heartily join with them in their esteem for you as a man, and in admiration of the fair, just, and able manner in which you have discharged your duties connected with the road. During your long connection with the Railroad, I have never heard one complaint; and this day shows that the feelings of those around you are as sincere as they are warm. Your strict integrity, and even-handed justice to all alike, have made you a favorite with the men under your charge; and, in this cold, business world, where every one seems striving for selfish ends and purposes—some for gold—some for honor—and some for the pleasures of life—it is charming and refreshing to see the bright sun of affection shine as it does here to-day, by the employees of your Division, for their appreciation of your worth.—They desire by this small token to show this to you, and may its time be as true as their sentiments conveyed, through me, to you to-day are. They hope you will appreciate it—not on account of the value of the gift, but in kindly remembrance of those who gave it; and that as we journey on through life, nothing may ever occur to mar the kind feelings and relations which have always existed among us. It is their wish—all of them—that you may long continue in the service of the great road with which you now are connected, and that their connection with you may as long exist; but whether so or not, you will always have their best wishes for prosperity and happiness to attend you—no matter what your duties in life may be, or where they may call you—and most truly do I join my wish with theirs, that such may be the case.

Sir, allow me to hand you this beautiful watch.

The watch bore the following inscription:—

PRESENTED
to
JONATHAN RHULE, Esq.,
by the Employees Maintenance of Way Department between Huntingdon and Hollidaysburg, as a token of their respect and esteem.

Mr Rhule received the watch and replied in the following

ADDRESS:

GENTLEMEN—I need hardly say to you that this is one of the proudest days of my life. A discharge of one's duty, it is true, always carries with it its own reward, and that consciousness is a man's best and truest happiness—but it is doubly precious when attested by those whose situations enable them to know it and declare any failure in its performance. You have been so situated; and this declaration by you, that I have discharged my duty to my employers and to you, is a far more precious and valuable testimonial than the valued and valuable gift through which you have conveyed it. I will cherish it as a remembrance of duty discharged in the past, and an incentive to fidelity in the future. Permit me to return to you my hearty thanks for the generous display of your regard for me, and feel assured that I cherish for each of you that respect and esteem which it shall ever be my pride to have for men who, like you, continued faithful and worthy in the discharge of every trust that I have committed to you; and while you have thus declared your satisfaction with my conduct towards you, I embrace this opportunity of saying that I return you also my thanks for your cheerful and ready discharge of your duties towards the road and myself; and I express the hope that we may long continue mutually to cherish and entertain those feelings, and to live in the respect and esteem of each other, by continuing to deserve it in the future. The high reputation which the road has attained under your charge should not be diminished for want of zeal or promptitude in the discharge of every duty imposed by the General Superintendent or the officers in charge of the sub-departments. The sub-divisions under your charge have been, in a great measure, free from accidents; and the numerous trains that are daily rolling over each of your divisions without any fear of accident or detention, give you all a high reputation for the past and the future. In my farewell address to H. J. Lombaert, Esq., when retiring from the office of the General Superintendence of the Penn's Railroad, in tendering to him in behalf of the employees under my charge an acknowledgement of the uniform courtesy and kindness in the discharge of your duties and the fidelity which has been approved of should not be diminished under the superintendence of our worthy Superintendent, Thomas Scott, Esq., who holds at heart every good and honest railroad man. Reach every good, and fulfill every duty that lays upon your shoulders; if you do greatly you shall not deceive yourselves, for we are as yet but at the starting point of human improvements, and when men shall strike up in their souls the light of justice and humanity, and in their hearts open the sleeping fountains of benevolence, then will their love revel itself in its sweetest enjoyments.

On motion, a vote of thanks was tendered to Geo. B. Cramer, for the manner in which he had discharged his duty, in the matter of purchasing the watch and chain.

On motion, the proceedings were ordered to be published in the Tyrone Star and Altoona Tribune.

The presentation ceremony having been concluded, the watch was handed around for inspection. It is a beautiful piece of mechanism, perfectly water-tight, and resembles, to look at it externally, a solid piece of gold. The watch was valued at $140, the fob chain at $30 and the seal at $8. The internal works are of the latest and most perfect patents, having been approved by a number of railroad men as the most perfect time-keepers. That Mr. Rhule should feel proud of such a present would not be unnatural, although we believe he valued the kind feelings of the doners much more, and felt a pride in the possession of their esteem which all the valuable gift and riches they could have laid at his feet would not have outweighed. That he is eminently worthy of this token of approbation from those under him, we need not assert, Mr. R. has ever been regarded as one of the most faithful Supervisors on the road, both to his employers and employees, and all alike join their kind regards in the token presented to him.

At half-past four o'clock, the company sat down to an excellent repast prepared by the worthy hostess of the National. To say that it was excellent is not sufficient; it was more than we had anticipated, and it would have been better had she but known the precise time at which the affair was to come of. We have not sat down to a better supper than that served up at the National at any hotel in this part of the country. Everything about the house wears an appearance of neatness, and orders are fulfilled with promptness and dispatch, without the noise and bustle usually attendant on such occasions. The National Hotel, of Tyrone, we have long known as a popular house, and now consider it deservedly such.

Shortly before six o'clock the party left for the station, well pleased with the proceedings of the afternoon, themselves, the attention they received and the supper, and vowed that whenever they visited the town again they would stop at the National.

IMPROVEMENT IN COOKING STOVES.—Some time since we referred to an improvement in Cooking Stoves, by which the smoke and gas arising from coal could be ignited and made to serve the purpose of heating the stove, thereby saving one-third of the fuel. The following description will convey an idea of the improvement:—

"It is well known that all inflammable matter requires a certain amount of air to support combustion, and if the supply is insufficient, it is impossible to produce a flame. The heat of the fire, in ordinary cooking stoves, decomposes the fuel, and as all the fresh air is admitted under the grate, its oxygen is exhausted before it has passed through the fire-chamber. The close flues at the top of the stove, then act as an extinguisher, tending to put out the fire, instead of assisting the combustion. A large portion of the fuel, therefore, passes off in the shape of smoke, clogging up the flues of the stove so as to impede the draft and interfere with the baking,—or of invisible gas which combines with the lime and so destroys the mortar of the chimneys, loosing the bricks, and exposing the dwellings to the danger of fire.

The introduction of an additional supply of cold air, would cool the gas below the igniting temperature, but by the proper application above the fire, of air previously heated to a temperature of several hundred degrees (which is one of the prominent features of the patent), the gases are inflamed in numerous jets, and their combustion is sufficient to heat the oven, even if the draft through the fire-chamber is entirely closed.

In addition to the ordinary direct draft under the grate and through the fire-chamber, the gas-burner has an additional draft through the top plates, which is of itself sufficient to maintain combustion. The upper draft not only consumes the gases, but it helps to strengthen and preserve the centre pieces, which are most exposed to the direct action of the fire, and which are made double instead of the usual single plates. By means of this draft alone, all the operations of cooking can be carried on when the fuel is but partially ignited, and the fuel consequently burns more slowly and more economically.

A sufficient evidence of the effect of the gases in heating the oven, is found in the fact that the oven will be ready for baking, even before the fire is thoroughly kindled, and much sooner than in any other stove."

Mr. John Shoemaker is the sole agent for the sale of these stoves in this county. Call at his store and examine them.

LAGER BEER THAT INTOXICATES.—Large quantities of Coculus Indicus, a poisonous and intoxicating drug, is imported to this country for use, it is said, in the manufacture of lager beer. Recently this beverage has come into extensive use, and the importations of Coculus Indicus has been largely increased. Dishonest brewers are supposed to use it, because it requires less malt to make beer when Coculus is an ingredient. To those, however, who are accustomed to use this beverage, the difference between that manufactured from pure malt and the Coculus malt, is easily discernible. It is universally admitted that the beer manufactured by Messrs. Wilhelm, of this place, is the best in the State, at least it has been so pronounced by those who should know. As a consequence they have more calls for the article than they can supply. The Altoona beer and none other is sold at the Mountain Restaurant, under the Masonic Temple. It is free from all kind of drugs. Persons desiring this beverage, which is often recommended as a stimulant, should be careful to get a pure article. It can be had at the place mentioned.

A PROMOTION.—We are always pleased to record the promotion of any of our citizens to post of honor, profit or trust, and we have that pleasure this week, in announcing that our young friend David T. Caldwell, clerk in the Banking House of Bell Johnson, Jack & Co., in this place, was, at the late Convention of the Junior Sons of America, at Lancaster, elected President of said Convention. The honor was worthily conferred, as there are few capable of filling such a post with more dignity than our young friend. That he will "bear his blushing honors meekly," we feel sure, and from his known integrity to the cause he has espoused we venture to predict that still highers honors await him in future.

S. S. PICNIC.—The Union Sunday School, of Allegheny Furnace, held a picnic on Saturday last, in a grove at that place, which was addressed by Rev. Dr. Happer, Rev. S. A. Wilson and others. An account of it will be found in the communication of "Fraser Hanstobpoy."

LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.—On Saturday evening last, a meeting was held in Mr. Burchinell's office, for the purpose of forming a Library Association. A committee was appointed to draft a Constitution and By-Laws for the Association. A case of valuable books has already been presented, and it is the intention to get suitable books for the use and edification of apprentices to the different trades, Engineers, Firemen and road men. Also literary books of all kinds. We are pleased to announce the formation of such an association, well knowing the benefits that must flow from it. Every young man in the town should contribute liberally for the purpose of purchasing books to be placed in this library. Let each one subscribe, say $5, (and that is less than the majority of them spend monthly for articles that are worse than useless,) and it will purchase one of the best libraries in the country, and the knowledge they will obtain from the use of those books will be worth ten times the amount of their subscription. We venture to say that there is not a young man who works in the shops in this place, who could not spare that amount out of one months wages in the year; and now let them calculate the amount which could be raised by a subscription like this, and they can form an estimate of the valuable books it will place within their reach. Not only the young but aged men may be benefitted by this library, and we expect to see many of them enrolling their names on the list, and contributing money and books. Enter into it, young men, with willing hearts and open hands; you are the individuals sought to be benfitted. But why need we extenuate; you know your duty and your interest, and we feel sure you will rightly consider the subject and act accordingly.

IRON CITY COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, PITTSBURG, PA.—Number of students attending this Institution is now 300—more than treble at any similar school in the country. It is a model, well furnished counting-house of four large halls, 20x40, 23x80, 22x70, 43x80 feet, and is conducted by a Faculty of fourteen experienced teachers and practical business men. The course of study being the most thorough and practical—Teachers of writing ALWAYS obtaining the medals here, also in eastern and western cities—Low prices of board and tuition—Healthiest city in the Union—Success of its graduates—Best location for gaining situations—cause this to be the largest Commercial School in the Union, making it the most desirable College for business men in any part of the country.

MAN KILLED.—On Monday morning last, the car inspectors at this place, on examing the Express Train Eastward, discovered portions of a handkerchief and a quantity of hair and blood upon the car wheels and breaks. It was not known to any one connected with the train that an accident had occurred, and conjecture was at fault in reference to the affair, until the arrival of the Mail Train which brought the information that a watchman on the Road, named Murphy, had been run over and killed near the "Pack-saddle," by the Express Train. From the fact that there were no marks upon the wheels of the engine or tender, it is supposed that the unfortunate man had got on the platform of the Express car to ride and by some means fell between the engine tank and car.

A "PLUG MUSS."—On Tuesday afternoon last, an Irishman and a negro gave a free exhibition in the "manly art of self-defence," a short distance below our office. How the fight originating, we are unable to say, (and presume nobody cares.) The first sight we obtained of them they were performing sundry feats of "ground and lofty tumbling," the negro finally landing uppermost. Neither one of them appeared to have hurt the other very much.—Reason why—the negro didn't want to hurt the Irishman and the Irishman couldn't hurt the "nager." The affair created quite an excitement, such affairs having of late become very rare in this place. We hope it may be the last for some time to come.

THE ENCAMPMENT.—At the military meeting held in this place, on the 3d inst., Gen. Bell appointed Col. Higgins, Majs. Innes and Bell, Capts. Bell and Hoffius and Lieut. Osterloh, a committee to procure the tents and other camp fixtures.

Col. Higgins, Capts. Zink and Morrow and Lieuts. Osterloh and Burley, were appointed a committee of invitation, with instructions to invite the different volunteer companies of adjoining Brigades to attend the Encampment.

The Hollidaysburg Fencibles, Scott Riflemen and Allegheny Cavalry were appointed to prepare the ground and make all necessary arrangements.

ANOTHER INVENTION.—We were shown a few evenings since, a new patent lamp for burning Lunar Oil. It exceeds in brilliancy of light that made from any other oil, burning fluid or gas, and emits no smoke or unpleasant odor.—In point of cheapness of light the Lunar Oil has no equal. It will burn at an average cost of but one cent per night, and emit a light equal to 22 candles The chief points that recommend the Lunar Oil are the beautiful, steady white light it emits, its cheapness and the impossibility of its explosion. The Lamps can be seen and tested at the store of Mr. John Shoemaker who has purchased the right for the sale of them in this and adjoining counties.

TROUBLESOME COUGHS AND COLDS.—Persons who have been long afflicted with Coughs and Colds without being benefitted by the use of medicine, we would, by way of salutary advice say, go to G. W. Kesslers, and buy a bottle of Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Cough Syrup, a medicine of great celebrity and is vastly superior to the various nostrums that flood the country. It is put up in bottles at 50 cents and $1.

THE BEST COUGH MEDICINES.—One of the very best Cough Medicines to be found anywhere, is Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup, sold by G. W. Kessler, at 50 cents per bottle.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Many persons attend celebrations for various purposes. Some go to see friends; others go to be seen. Some go to see what great fools they can make of themselves; others go to get something good to eat; few go to be intellectually benefitted. I confess the last reason is the one that induces me to attend them. Things that are said at celebrations are generally so plain and appropriate, that they are more easily understood and remembered than if said on many other occasions. Hence, my penchant for attending them.

I was at the celebration of the Allegheny Furnace Sabbath School last Saturday, the 7th inst. The officers of the school, I am free to say, labor for its good in a manner that reflects much credit upon them.

The school is not a very large one, but is composed of quite a number of small children, whose cheerful faces betokened happy hearts and whose merry laughter made others glad.

After proceeding to the grove, they were addressed in a plain and interesting manner by Rev. Aughe, of Williamsburg; and when they had enjoyed themselves by swinging, etc., for about an hour, they surrounded a sumptuously laden table which fairly groaned beneath the abundance of good things. When they all had partaken of the rich dinner, the Rev. Dr. Happer, a foreign missionary, exhibited to us some idols of heathen worship, accompanied by lucid explanations and touching appeals. The Doctor's dignified and noble appearance, his clever articulation, his volubility of utterance and his heart-prompted discourse gained for him undivided attention, and were calculated to deeply impress the hearts and command the reverence of all. Rev. S. A. Wilson, of Altoona, followed in a brief but eloquent address, which tended to seal upon the mind still more securely if possible the conviction of the truths which the last speaker uttered.

The hospitality of the people there was truly commendable. It was not grudgingly bestowed, but, being in the heart, it was trained and strengthened by Religion, and exhibited itself in open-handed generosity and love. Much praise is due those who were the getters-up of the celebration. I am sorry that I do not know the names of all the ladies who made themselves so useful upon that occasion. I would like to speak of them as being worthy of the highest praise, if I only knew their names.

God bless the ladies, say I.

PURSER HANSTOBPOY.

SINKING VALLEY, August 9, 1858.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—A few days since I took my departure from your town, escorted by my friend M. as far as the village over the hill, known by the appropriate name (in rainy weather) of Mudtown. While crossing the ridge, we had the pleasure of meeting der Purser Hanstobpoy, in company with one of the fair sex which adorn this part of our glorious land of liberty, and judging from his conversation, he was evidently on the "lookout" for a Rev. or an Esq., to tie the "everlasting knot." His business, he said, was of such a nature that it would not permit him to tarry, therefore I bid him good by and proceeded on my journey.

Winding my way through the wilds of Brush mountain, I arrived at this place in due season, and found the people in the lively and vigorous pursuit of wealth. Mr. Joseph Crawford & Co., are engaged in digging for lead ore, which I have no doubt will be found in great abundance, should they continue to dig for it, and I know that old Joe is not one of the kind to give up anything he knows there is money to be made at. A shaft some twenty or twenty-five feet in depth has been sunk, and about ten or twelve hundred weight of the ore taken out, which is said to be superior to that of the Galena mines. Upon examination I found it pure enough to be taken from the bank and manufactured into bullets.

Last Spring, the Directors of this township (Tyrone) made provisions for erecting a schoolhouse which is now almost completed. It will be an ornament to this part of the country. It is put up in a grand style and reflects much credit on the builder, Mr. Robert Stewart.

I will "hold off" for the present, promising to give you a line again. PERIWINKLE

☞ A Monmouth paper says, "in another column will be found the certificate of our fellow townsman, James W. Davidson, Esq., to Prof. Wood. This is another of the numerous instances where it has changed gray hair to raven ringlets, and bald scalps to waving locks. Let any who stand in need of this valuable remedy give it a fair trial."

CAUTION.—Beware of worthless imitations, as several are already in the market, called by different names. Use none unless the words (Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, Depot St. Louis, Mo., and New York,) are blown in the bottle. Sold by all Druggists and Patent Medicine dealers. Also by all Fancy and Toilet Goods dealers in the United States and Canada. See advertisement in this week's paper.

THE PANIC—MORE FAILURES.—The panic in New York seems to be on the increase. In this city everything goes on smoothly, and the only failures we have heard of were the failures to furnish good fits made by some inferior clothing establishments. There is no such difficulty to be encountered by those who patronize the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above sixth. Gentlemen and Youths never fail to procure capital fits at this popular establishment.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN COOKING STOVES.
CONSUMPTION OF SMOKE AND GAS AND SAVING OF FUEL.

The subscriber takes pleasure in offering to the public a NEW GAS AND SMOKE CONSUMING Cooking Stove, recently patented, which is destined to supercede all others, as it requires than other stoves and is more easily, quickly and regularly heated. No unpleasant smell of gas arises from this stove from the fact that it is all consumed ere it can escape. There is no trouble from smoke as that unpleasant and often annoying exhalation is also consumed inside of the stove. Neither is there any danger of flues or chimneys becoming clogged with soot or the mortar loosened by the gas arising from coal fires.

Persons wishing to purchase stoves are invited to call at the store of the subscriber, in the Masonic Temple, and examine the above stoves.

INTENSE EXCITEMENT!—McCORMICK'S NEW GOODS HAVE ARRIVED AND ARE NOW BEING OPENED FOR INSPECTION AND SALE.

"Hallos, neighbor, I'm here on the ground again. Perhaps you recollect, I, last year, asked you to hold my horse a moment and tell me where the CHEAP STORE was. But it is different now. It reminds me a little of the campaign of 1840, when Gen. Harrison was elected President. You have only to go with the crowd and you will have no difficulty in finding McCORMICK'S STORE. From the excitement down the valley, and the quantity of goods I see carried away, they must be selling off very rapidly and very cheap."

"You are right, my friend; I would say to you, sir, go ahead and your anticipations will be fully realized. He has a very large and well selected assortment of Goods. He'll sell you a dress for 4½c cents and throw the trimmings into the bargain, I'm told, and all other goods in proportion."

GREAT DISCOVERY OF THE AGE

IMPORTANT TO

TOBACCO CHEWERS.

DR. GUSTAV LINNARD'S TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES, the great Substitute for Tobacco.

It is a well known and incontrovertable fact that the use of Tobacco is the promoting cause of many of the most severe.

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL DISORDERS

to which the race of man is subject, as careful analysis and long and painful experience have clearly proven that it contains certain narcotic and poisonous properties most dangerous in their effects, which by entering into the blood derange the functions and operations of the Heart, causing many to suppose that organ to be seriously diseased.

TOBACCO affects also the entire nervous system, manifesting itself—as all who have ever used the noxious weed will bear testimony—in Lassitude, Nervous Irritability, Weak Brain, Dyspepsia, and many other disorders of a similar character.

THE TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES

Are designed to counteract these baneful influences, and have proved completely successful in a multitude of cases, and wherever used. Being harmless in themselves they exert a beneficial effect upon the entire system, restoring the Taste which has become vitiated or destroyed by great indulgence, completely removing the irritation and accompanying tickling sensation of the Throat—which are always consequent upon abstaining from the use of Tobacco, and by giving a healthy tone to the Stomach, invigorate the whole system.

Persons who are irretrievably undermining their constitutions and shortening their lives, should use these Troches immediately and throw off the injurious and and unpleasant habit of Tobacco Chewing.

These Troches of Lozenges are put up in a convenient and portable form at the low price of 50 Cents per Box. A liberal discount to the Trade.

Prepared solely by the undersigned to whom all orders should be addressed.
